

Weekly / Monthly Reporting Template

From The OneVision Playbook by Isaiah Wright · onevision asset vault Fill this in. Do not retype it out of the book.

Chapter 14 · Stage 6 — Proof

One page. Four numbers. Three sentences. If it takes more than five minutes to fill in, simplify until it doesn't.

[CLIENT NAME] · [PERIOD]

Appointments booked

Appointments shown

___ (___ % show rate)

Jobs won (you told us)

Estimated revenue from those

$___

Cost of the program

$___

Cost per booked appointment

$___

Cost per shown appointment

$___

What changed this month

What I'm changing next month

What I need from you

RULES

Lead with appointments, not impressions. Platform metrics are your diagnostic, not his report. Keep them in your own view.

"Jobs won (you told us)" is labeled deliberately. You can't verify what he closed. Labeling it as reported keeps you accurate — and gives you a monthly reason to ask, which is the number you need for case studies later.

Send it in a bad month, on time, with the bad number first. A missing report reads as hiding.

THE BAD MONTH MESSAGE

``` "August was down — 6 booked against 11 in July.

Here's what I think happened: [specific diagnosis, not 'the algorithm changed'].

Here's what I'm changing: [one or two specific things, with dates].

Here's what I need from you: [something concrete, or 'nothing, this one's on me'].

I'll have the first read on whether it's working by [date]." ```

WEEKLY TWO-LINER

Between monthly reports, thirty seconds:

"{{N}} booked this week. {{one thing that needs him, or 'nothing needed from you'}}."

Keeps the lookback window continuously full.